"EUROPE'S LARDER"

It is another name for the United States this year. For the first time in history this country is expected to practically feed all Europe.

Bad crops there—record crops here furnish the cause. Good business? Yes, not only for the farmers but for everybody. The enormous shipments of foodstuffs mean the employment of vast armies of men in the transportation.

It means good wages for workers—and money for everybody to spend. In short, it means good times and prosperity.

New York City usually gets the lion's share of national prosperity. To start advertising NOW in the New York City Surface Cars means appealing to a buying audience exceeding 1,800,000 a day.

New Yorkers have many wants and money to satisfy them. They know from experience that none but honest propositions are advertised in the Surface Cars.

Get yours in the Cars, without delay—get your share of the coming prosperity.

since he was shot. He felt so well after his homecoming this forenoon that he dismissed the doctors a few hours later. Even the nurse was told that his presence during the night was not necessary.

The wounded man, once he had ascended to his sleeping room, on the second floor, was undressed and put to bed. He confessed that the journey home had fatigued him, but he joyfully asserted that with a little sleep he would soon be feeling "as fit as a fiddle."

Sagamore Hill was quite transformed this evening. This morning, upon the arrival of Colonel Roosevelt, with his immediate family and his four physicians, the house was practically in command of the doctors, while the entrance to the Sagamore Hill grounds was guarded to keep all strangers and curious persons at bay.

No sooner had Colonel Roosevelt's physicians taken leave than the candidate issued orders to have the guards withdrawn. At dusk the only guard was James Amos, Colonel Roosevelt's colored servant, who is every inch as devoted a "bodyguard" as ever kept watch over a king.

Happy To Be in Own Room.

From James the newspaper men learned that Colonel Roosevelt was a trifle pale, but as game as he ever was in his life, when he climbed the broad stairs leading from the main hall to his sleeping room above. He sank back into the easy bed with a sigh and a smile of almost childish delight because he was under his own roof, the place where he has longed to be ever since he was forced to go to bed at the Mercy Hospital in Chicago a week ago to-night.

After he had eaten a light "supper" the colonel dozed off and caught up on some of his sleep lost on the jolting, swaying sleeper. His wound was oozing serum almost continually, but this was not weakening—only a hopeful sign that drainage was taking place, and the physicians were satisfied.

Mrs. Roosevelt did not allow her vigilance to wane in the close watch she kept over her husband since he entered his home this forenoon. The colonel was feeling so happy over his homecoming that he wanted to talk with every one.

George Emlen Roosevelt, the colonel's cousin, who has acted as a "buffer" for the colonel since his return, said last night that the patient was in better spirits and health than he had been since he was shot.

Colonel Roosevelt has expressed a desire to receive the newspaper men on Wednesday and to re-establish as much as possible the routine of his busy campaign life. It is apparent, however, that he will not leave Sagamore Hill for at least one week.

Wouldn't See Hotchkiss.

William H. Hotchkiss, Progressive chairman of New York State, called at Sagamore Hill this afternoon, but he did not get to the leader's bedside. Colonel Roosevelt said he would obey his doctors and see no one on strictly official business—not even Hotchkiss.

Avoids Greeting at Station.

The Roosevelt special pulled into the Pennsylvania station at 8:02 o'clock, two minutes ahead of time, this morning. It was a matter of less than half an hour before Colonel Roosevelt's private car ideal was shunted to the tunnel tracks, and the train, with a combination baggage and coach, was started for Syosset, a station four miles south of Oyster Bay, where Colonel Roosevelt was transferred quickly to a limousine and hurried to Sagamore Hill. Colonel Roosevelt walked to the house and was assisted to his bedroom, on the second floor.

The crowd of several hundred persons at Oyster Bay was greatly disappointed over the failure of the party to come into the station. About half an hour before the special train arrived at Syosset some of the excitement of the change of the plans, and automobiles were at a premium in the village. Newspaper photographers who had swarmed down to the bay, soon were racing over the smooth road in swift automobiles, and many of them reached Syosset before Colonel Roosevelt. While the candidate was being assisted into his automobile the battery of cameras clicked rapidly.

To lessen the disappointment of the crowd at Oyster Bay the following bulletin was sent to the station master:

Colonel Roosevelt has stood the trip well, but we believe him in no condition to stand the excitement of receiving his friends at Oyster Bay. He deeply appreciates their interest in his welfare. We regret the necessity of avoiding him at Oyster Bay, but deem it better for him to go direct to Sagamore Hill without coming here.

This was signed by Dr. Joseph A. Blake, Dr. George Brewer, Dr. Alexander E. Lambert and Dr. S. L. Terrell.

The first to greet Colonel Roosevelt at Sagamore Hill was William Bayliss, the gardener. Next came Ralph Amos, the butler.

"Hello, Billy," "Hello, Ralph," the colonel cried in a fairly steady voice. "I'm feeling bulky."

May Speak in a Week.

As soon as the colonel was taken upstairs the physicians who accompanied him home from Chicago made a careful examination of the wound. At 10:02 o'clock they gave out the following statement:

Colonel Roosevelt must have one week of absolute rest. If he gets it he will be able to make several speeches from then on to the end of the campaign. If he doesn't get it he cannot get into the campaign at all. But if he gets the desired rest he should be able not only to make the Madison Square speech, but several others.

The bulletin was given to the press by George Emlen Roosevelt. He assured the newspaper men that Colonel Roosevelt was much better than he was when he left Chicago. "He wants to talk with every one," said Mr. Roosevelt, "and he is full of his old-time spirit, and he keeps sending for me and asks me to talk with him on a hundred and one different subjects."

Wants to Tackle Bryan.

As soon as the morning newspapers were handed to Colonel Roosevelt yesterday the speech of William Jennings Bryan made at Canton, Ohio, caught his eye. As soon as the story was read to him Colonel Roosevelt said he believed that Mr. Bryan had misquoted him. Two sec-

SCHRANK SAYS HE'S SORRY

Tells Prisoner He Regrets Attack on Roosevelt.

Milwaukee, Oct. 22.—John Schrank has arrived at the stage of being sorry for his attempt on the life of Colonel Roosevelt, according to the statement today of a prisoner on trial in Municipal Court. John Frey, on trial for wife murder, was lodged in the same tier of cells with Schrank. He played checkers with the would-be assassin, and during one game Schrank, according to Frey, said: "I considered it my duty at the time I tried to rid the country of a third term, but I am sorry now."

WOMAN LOAN SHARK LOSES

Technical Point Overruled by Court of Appeals.

Albany, Oct. 22.—The Court of Appeals today upheld the conviction of Emma Blomberg, of New York, for charging more than the legal rate of interest on a loan in violation of the banking law.

The defense contended that an amendment to the law enacted in 1911 forbidding the taking of more than 6 per cent interest in counties containing an incorporated city was unconstitutional, as it applied to only thirty-six counties and was special legislation.

Six of the crew were drowned. Captain Echeverra and twelve others aboard were rescued by the Port Aransas lifesaving crew and brought here today.

OLDEST POTTERY BURNED

Fire Sweeps Philadelphia Plant Covering Four Blocks.

Philadelphia, Oct. 22.—The fire brick and pottery works of the Richard C. Remmey Sons Company, Hedley street and Delaware avenue, were destroyed by fire to-night.

The buildings, chiefly of frame, occupied a space equivalent to four city blocks. The loss is estimated at $50,000. It is said the pottery works is the oldest business concern in the United States.

ADVICE ON FIRE PREVENTION.

Booklets issued by Firemen House Commissioner John J. Murphy on how to prevent fires will be distributed in a campaign for fire prevention to be begun today at Public School 23, Mulberry and Bayard streets. The booklets, which are intended to reach the parents of the pupils, advise against the accumulation of rubbish, storing firewood in non-fireproof cellars, urging putting fire escapes in good order, ascertaining where the nearest fire-hose is and determining in advance what to do in case of a fire.

BOY DIES FOR LOVE AT 15

Forces Way Into Home of Girl of 13 and Shoots Himself.

Toby Tyson, fifteen years old, when refused admittance to the home of his sweetheart, Alvah Ross, thirteen years old, who lives at No. 614 Atlantic avenue, Brooklyn, forced his way in and committed suicide by shooting himself yesterday morning. The boy was taken to the Holy Family Hospital, where he died a few hours later. He lived with his widowed mother, Mrs. Hilda Tyson, at No. 144 Flatbush avenue.

Young Tyson reached the home of Alvah Ross at 8:30 o'clock. Mrs. Ross rebuked him for calling. "What do you want here? I told you to keep away from my daughter," she said, as she attempted to close the door.

"I want to see Alvah," replied the lad. "Oh, let me see her just once." Toby stood there a moment, and then passers-by saw him force his way in. There was a report of a pistol, and when they rushed into the house to see what had happened the boy was lying in the hallway and near by was a pistol. He was still breathing, but died several hours later at the Holy Family Hospital.

Young Tyson, who was large for his age, met Alvah Ross three years ago, being introduced by his sister. He worked in an art shop and hoped some day to be an artist.

His mother, who was much affected by his death, could not explain where he could have obtained the revolver.

On the table Mrs. Tyson found a note which said: "I want to conquer the world. Oh, God! That is my dying wish, and I want my Alvah, too." Nearby was an open volume, entitled "Campfires of Napoleon," which was opened at the page which told of Napoleon contemplating suicide.

The revolutionary troops have made preparations for the defense of the city. The high points in the suburbs have been provided with artillery and outposts stationed still further away gave the alarm as soon as the federal troops began their advance.

NURSE AGAIN UNCONSCIOUS

Miss Harris, who Gave Patient Fatal Dose, Probably Will Die.

Miss Florence Harris, the young nurse at the Yonkers Homeopathic Hospital who gave a patient oxalic acid by mistake, causing her death, relapsed into a state of coma last night, and, according to the doctors, will probably die. She fell into a coma soon after she learned of her fatal error on Sunday, but regained consciousness twenty-four hours later.

The only sign of recalling anything of the past displayed by Miss Harris yesterday was that she knew her father and mother when they visited her. She had shown no sign of knowing the doctors or the nurses. If she recalled the fatal accident she made no mention of it.

"She is still in a state of amnesia, so far as the accident and those even remotely connected with it are concerned," is the way one physician put it yesterday. She has spoken connectedly at times since she revived from the coma into which she sank after the death of the patient.

The funeral of Mrs. Alice Haight, the young mother, whose death was due to the error, took place yesterday. As yet no one has learned how the poison came to be in the medicine closet close to the salt.

CONVICTED IN VIENNA

Word was received by the District Attorney yesterday of the conviction in Vienna, Austria, of Joseph Fischhoff on a charge of grand larceny preferred by Abel Brothers, Jewellers, of No. 25 Maiden Lane.

Fischhoff was sentenced to two years and six months. He is a citizen of Austria.

In the fall of 1911 he stole jewelry worth $1,350 from his employers and went to Vienna. They took their complaint to the District Attorney. Fischhoff refused to return. James A. Delehanty, an Assistant District Attorney, with the aid of the Austrian Consul, sent to Vienna affidavits signed by all who would have been called as witnesses had Fischhoff returned for his trial.

Fischhoff's conviction means that for three years after he gets out of prison he is deprived of his civil and political rights, and that if he attempts to return to the United States he may be deported as an ex-convict.

"WHOOOPER" ROUTS CROWD

Lion House, in Central Park, Quickly Emptied of Visitors.

Mothers and nursery maids rushed pell mell out of the Lion house in the Central Park menagerie yesterday afternoon with the numerous infants in their care. The cause of the sudden break for the open air was the presence of a child with whooping cough in the crowded Lion house.

Many of the youngsters were from the Fifth avenue section.

The crowd was densest in front of the cage where the Lion cubs are kept. While intently watching the antics of the cubs no one seemed to notice a child that was coughing at intervals. When, however, the "whooper" gave vent to a spasm of coughing that could not be mistaken, the cubs had no more attraction for the mothers and nursery maids.

When an official of the Department of Health was asked if it were possible for the other children in the Lion house to contract the disease, he said the warm, crowded structure was a first class medium for the spread of it.

Fresh air, it was pointed out, was the first thing to be considered in the treatment of whooping cough, and many mothers take their children to the parks at such a time.

There is at present no way of preventing contact with whooping cough.

ETHICAL CULTURE WEDDING

Miss Hilda B. Matzner Married to a Western Lawyer.

Miss Hilda B. Matzner was married in ethical culture manner in the "marriage chamber" of the new Ethical Culture Building, at 614 street and Central Park West, yesterday to Louis L. Schwartz, a lawyer from Minneapolis. The wedding was like others in that many gayly dressed persons were present and flowers and joyful music abounded.

The bride and bridegroom marched before a large and enthusiastic audience that crowded the big hall to the altar, where Dr. John Lovejoy Elliot performed the meagre ceremony. While they marched the audience cheered. Dr. Elliot told them how serious a contract they were signing and asked them if they would obey each other. They said "No." And that's where the ceremony differed.

"Morality, as dictated by the enlightened conscience, is fundamental of every relation in life," Dr. Elliot said. "Especially should it be so in marriage. The promise to follow it is made a part of our marriage ceremony. The omission of the word 'obey' is not new and not peculiar to our society."

JERSEY MARRIAGE VOIDED

New York Girl Was Under the Age of Legal Consent.

Albany, Oct. 22.—The marriage of a girl under the age of legal consent contracted in another state may be annulled by the courts of this state if the couple are residents of New York State, according to a decision today by the Court of Appeals.

William Cunningham, who boarded at the home of Anna Freil, in New York City, took the girl to Westwood, N. J., on January 30, 1910, where they were married. They kept the marriage a secret for three months. When the mother learned of it she began an action to annul the marriage, but the complaint was dismissed by Justice Greenbaum, and his action was upheld by the Appellate Division. The Court of Appeals reversed the lower court today and ordered a new trial.

Judge Haight, in the majority opinion, holds "that the marriage of the plaintiff to the defendant in the State of New Jersey, while she was under the age of legal consent, without the knowledge or consent of her parents, was repugnant to our public policy and legislation, and in view of the fact that the parties were, and ever since have been, residents of this state, our courts have the power to relieve the plaintiff by annulling the marriage."

Judge Werner, dissenting, takes the ground that the marriage, being valid in New Jersey, the courts of this state had no power to dissolve it.

SHE WOULDN'T WEAR 'EM

Actress in Her Rights, Jury Thought, Giving Her $959.

Miss Kittle Rose, an actress, thought she was to appear in musical comedy when she signed a contract with Max Spiegel, a theatrical manager. She did not know she would be expected to appear in male attire. It was a shock to Miss Rose when she learned that she had been engaged to play in burlesque and also would have to wear—well, trousers.

She just wouldn't. Miss Rose said, and insisted that Spiegel release her from the contract. The actress received several other offers, and she pleaded with the party of the first part, but without avail. So Miss Rose lost several months' salary, wherefore she sued Spiegel. The case was tried in the City Court yesterday. Miss Rose told her story, as above given.

Then Spiegel told his side. He said he was looking around for another actress to take the place of Miss Rose, and that she was discharged.

After reflecting a while, the jury decided Spiegel should pay Miss Rose $959.66.
